

Pierce College Amenities For South Hill Business & Technology Center Tenants

As you know, South Hill Business & Technology Center is adjacent to Pierce College Puyallup. What you might not know is the benefits this proximity provides the tenants in our campus.

- Pierce College will partner with our tenants to provide job skills and workforce training programs that include B&O tax credits for your company and matching grant funding. Pierce College's Allied Health program includes nursing (both Certified Nursing Assistant and Registered Nursing), medical coding and billing, and a hybrid (combination of on-line and in-person instruction) Physical Therapy Assistant Program. The teaching and learning spaces in the Allied Health section of the building are designed to give students experience that closely resembles their potential workplaces.
- Pierce College has also offered to make available some of their facilities with tenants at South Hill Business & Technology Center. This includes access to their new Health Education Center that includes a full complement of weight machine systems, free weights, treadmills, elliptical trainers, bikes, etc., an expansive cardio room, large multipurpose room, lockers, towel service, private showers, free wireless technology, and fitness classes.
- Also available is Pierce College's new cafeteria, offering deli items, soup, sandwiches, snacks and beverages.
- Additionally, their new performing arts facility, The Arts and Allied Health Building is due for final completion in Spring 2010. This 61,000 square foot building will provide our tenants access to state-of-the-art auditorium space for large meetings (seating for up to 300 people) and other company functions.
- Pierce College also has an on-site daycare facility.
- Finally, South Hill Tenant's can take advantage of over six miles of trails that connect Pierce College, our 92-acre campus and Bradley Lake Park.

Please let us know if you would like to schedule a tour to see just how much our neighbor, Pierce College has to offer their neighbors at South Hill Business & Technology Center.
